Performers: Alfonso Barón, Luciano Rosso

Choreographers: Nicolás Poggi, Luciano Rosso

Director: Hermes Gaido

Synopsis

Two men and a live radio in a dressing room, face each other, challenge, fight and seduce each other. An interesting cross between dance, sports and sexuality. A work that, based on body language, explores the limits of contemporary language, regarding movement and its subsequent interpretations. A provocation, an invitation to laugh at ourselves, and at the same time, recognize our totality

Un Poyo Rojo, mixes acrobatics and comicity: Naif, kitch, poncif, or whatever his multiple readings can throw. A powerful range of the physical and spiritual possibilities of the human being.

A brief history of the company

The project started in 2008 when two performers were creating an act for a variety show in the Centro Cultural Laboratorio in Buenos Aires. Its initial creators, Luciano Rosso and Nicolás Poggi put together a duet with small comic touches in order to find ways within movement to show different relationships between two men, using elements of dance and also theatre.

This duet came out of different movement proposals which mixed high impact contemporary partner work with duo sequences. After presenting the piece for the first time, the opportunity came up to perform the piece in many other spaces in the city of Buenos Aires, such as the Ciudad Cultural Konex, Teatro del Perro, Teatro Martinelli and Circo del Aire, amongst others.

In April of that year, they were selected to participate in the "Ciudanza" festival which takes place in urban spaces around the city and with the collaboration of Hermes Gaido, the current director of the company, they recreated the piece. They were also selected to perform at the Rafaela Theatre Festival (2009 and 2010) in Santa Fé and at the El Cruce Festival in the city of Rosario in September 2009. In July 2009, they received funding from PRODANZA in support of the completion of the full-length play.

In April 2010, they debuted a 45 minute long piece in the Espacio Cultural Pata de Ganso in Buenos Aires and received a highly positive reaction from the audience. Then with the full-length version of the play, they were selected by Spain's Network of Alternative Theatres to tour three cities (Madrid, Barcelona and Valencia) as part of the Network's 1st Latin American Circuit during the month of November in 2010.

In 2011 they resumed performance in Buenos Aires with Alfonso Barón, completing three sell-out seasons and continuing to tour various provinces in Argentina during 2012 and 2013.

With yet more uninterrupted seasons of performances in their home country and across Latin America, in 2015 they then started their 7th season in Buenos Aires and launched their first six-month World Tour during which they visited countries from different continents, such as Uruguay, Bolivia, France, Italy, Spanish, Switzerland, Germany and New Caledonia.

Now in 2016 they are currently in their 8th season and are performing on Fridays and Saturdays in the Galpón de Guevara in Buenos Aires and in August they will travel to Europe to carry out a tour of 86 shows. On this tour, they are programmed to perform at some prestigious theatres such as "Rond Point" in Paris and at important, renowned international festivals in various European cities such as France, Italy, Belgium, Switzerland and Spain.

As well as giving workshops on their tours, in 2015 the Un poyo rojo company directed a show called "LIFE BAG" with graduates from the Scuola Dimitri (France, Switzerland). They then toured with this show and performed in various countries such as Switzerland, Germany and France.

Press

"One of the 10 best shows of the year in Argentina."

La Nación

"A joyful, fresh, talented discovery and rigorous technical performance."

Mirada Teatral

"Cock in stock. Un Poyo Rojo is a great invention. True Living Art".

L'Express (FRA)

"Kitsch combat for cocks sport. These two actors, dancers and acrobats glide from glamor to the abject in a rhapsody of gags thoroughly choreographed".

Libération (FRA)

"One of the most sensual show to be seen, unbreakable energy and teasing humor"

Télérama (FRA)

"In this cock fight, baroque and sensual, the machismo and spirit of competition lose many feathers. What a drollery"

Le Canard Enchaîné (FRA)

"Untiring energy".

Diario Uno. (ARG)

"A must see".

Revista Blue (ARG)
